

Node B receives a replication request and takes a snapshot of the actor to be replicated and sends it to the node included in the request.